Russia Blocks Big 4 Progress

SOVIET WARNS REPARATIONS IS CHIEF INTEREST

No Early Settlement Of German Issue Possible Without Compromise

MOSCOW, March 28—The big four council of foreign ministers was confronted with a warning from Russia today that there can be no settlement of Germany's economic future unless the Soviet Union gains satisfaction on reparations.

This was made clear by Soviet Deputy Andrei Vishinsky during an all-night session of the big four coordination committee which worked until 10 a. m. with only a brief recess at dawn.

Wary-eyed U. S. Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay and other western members of the committee were far from hopeful over prospects of the conference as a result of the night-long meeting.

AMERICAN and British delegations have maintained there could be no settlement of the political problem in Germany without an accompanying agreement on economic unification.

Informed observers therefore believe the Soviet attitude definitely makes success of the conference dependent upon whether or not Russia obtains satisfaction on her reparations demands.

Vishinsky left no doubt in anyone's mind on this point. He said the Soviet delegation considers that economic principles and the question of German industrial levels are indissolubly bound up with reparations.

At the same time he said the Soviets had studied various proposals from other delegations and found numerous points upon which it would be possible to reach a general solution. But again he emphasized that this would depend upon a mutual understanding with regard to reparations.

U. S. SECRETARY of State George C. Marshall, however, is not disposed to "buy" any agreement on Germany if it means the United States must pump.

SOLON CHARGES OUTSIDERS GOT 'INSIDE DOPE'

WASHINGTON, March 28—Rep. John Taber (R-N. Y.), charged today that unidentified persons have posed as house appropriations committee representatives to obtain government information.

Taber, committee chairman, suggested a justice department check on the incidents he said had been reported to him by various agency heads.

He asserted that "the departments should protect themselves to the extent" of calling for such action. Taber has written heads of all government departments to be on the look out for unauthorized seekers of information.

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Army chief of staff, placed Taber's memorandum in an Army circular. The general said it was for "the information and guidance of all concerned."

CONGRESS ACTION ASKED

WASHINGTON, March 28—The senate and house labor committees were requested today to act as a "fact finding" panel in the wage dispute threatening a national strike of telephone workers April 7.

Farm Bureau Is Set For Fight Against Tax Bill

COLUMBUS, O., March 28—The Ohio Farm Bureau federation marshalled its forces today for the legislative fight of its life.

The bureau was the target of a bill introduced in the Ohio senate to remove the tax exemptions now enjoyed by co-operatives. Co-ops now pay only a $10 annual fee in lieu of all other corporation taxes, licenses, and charges on reserves held by its members.

The bill was sponsored by Rep. I. E. Baker (R-Phillipsburg), a manufacturer who claimed that co-ops should be required to bear the same share of the tax burden as other businesses.

There was no immediate estimate available of how much additional the bill — if it becomes law — would cost the co-ops. However, there are 86 county farm bureaus in the state. Many, if not most of them probably would have to pay in excess of $1,000.

D. R. Stanfield, legislative agent for the Farm Bureau — succeeding present state fair manager Edwin J. Bath — was visibly disturbed at the introduction of the bill.

STANFIELD pointed out, however, that the Farm Bureau has suggested itself that it pay the same corporate franchise tax — $25 a year — that other firms pay instead of the present co-op fee of $10.

However, the Farm Bureau has no desire to see the other taxes imposed.

Baker claimed that he had sufficient support lined up to get the bill through the senate — but it may prove another wedge driven in the split between the house and senate when and if it reaches the rural lower chamber.

The house and senate are already split on such matters as school financing and aid to local governments. The house claims it cannot act on the $32 million dollar budget bill until the senate acts on school foundation fund legislation, while the senate seems determined to hold up school bills until the house indicates a willingness to grant greater state aid to local governments.

GOVERNOR SAYS UAW LEADERS 'RED CAPTIVES'

WASHINGTON, March 28—Gov. Kim Sigler of Michigan charged today that three prominent national officers of the United Auto Workers (CIO) are "captives of the Communist party of the United States."

Sigler testified before the house un-American activities committee that R. J. Thomas, former president and now vice president of the union; George Addes, secretary-treasurer; and Richard T. Leonard, national director of the Ford department of the union, are "following the Communist party lines."

Michigan's governor listed the three officials in a statement in which he declared the Communists were striving to gain control of the labor movement in Michigan.

ALBANY, March 28—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, titular leader of the Republican party in the United States, was on record today with a flat declaration that "strikes against government are wholly unlawful."

Ignoring veto demands by organized labor and teacher groups, the New York governor signed the Condon-Wadlin bill which automatically deprives of his job any public employee who goes on strike.

The measure was passed by the 1947 legislature shortly after 3,000 Buffalo public school teachers paralyzed the educational system in the state's second largest city for a week. They demanded pay increases, which are partially met by a permanent salary bill still before the governor for signature.

Leaders in the campaign to obtain for Dewey the 1948 Republican presidential nomination said today that his approval of the Condon-Wadlin bill would enhance his chances for a second White House race.

They compared the stringent New York state law to the no-strike attitude taken by the late president Calvin Coolidge when the Boston police force struck.

John Evers, Of Famous Cub Trio, Dies At 65 After Suffering Stroke

ALBANY, N. Y., March 28—John Joseph Evers, 65, who key-stoned the famous double play combination of "Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance" for the old Chicago Cubs, died of a cerebral hemorrhage today in St. Peter's hospital in Albany.

Evers succumbed to his second stroke in five years. He had entered the hospital two days ago.

The old-time baseball star was a native of Troy, N. Y.

He is survived by his widow and a son, John Joseph, Jr.; both of Albany; two sisters, Mrs. William P. McCarthy, Troy, and Miss Ella C. Evers, New York City; and three brothers, Edward S. Joseph F., and Michael P. Evers, of Troy.

JOHNNY EVERS was the key man in the greatest baseball triumvirate of all time.

The famous slogan "Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance" will echo down the diamond's corridors of time as long as the game is played, just as it has been kept fresh in the memory of two generations of ball players.

VETERANS' AGRICULTURE TRAINING UP TO 70 PERCENT

COLUMBUS, O., March 28—A veterans administration report showed today that participation in veterans' agricultural training has increased more than 70 per cent since the first of the year.

The report indicated 5,350 Ohio veterans were enrolled in farm training, compared with approximately 3,000 on Jan. 1. Nearly every county now has a farm program in operation for veterans.

SHERICK NAMED

COLUMBUS, O., March 28—Clyde C. Sherick, Ashland Republican and for 18 years a fifth district court of appeals judge, was appointed today to the Ohio pardon and parole commission.

Governor Thomas J. Herbert named Sherick to succeed Emmitt E. Everitt, Lima Democrat whose term expires March 31.

INQUEST OPENS INTO CAUSE OF ROSSITER DEATH

Inquiry Into Mystery Angles Of Death Slated To Continue Saturday

In an attempt to solve the mystery of the death of Edwin Gerold Rossiter, 31, Pickaway County Coroner Lloyd Jones began an inquest Friday morning in the police station.

After discrepancies developed in the testimony of the first witness the inquest was recessed at noon and will be resumed at 1 p. m. Saturday in the office of County Prosecutor Kenneth Robbins with a stenographer present to record the testimony.

The coroner said that seven or eight witnesses will be called to testify Saturday. In the meantime, Coroner Jones said, he is waiting for the results of the autopsy performed Monday night by two Columbus pathologists.

A formal verdict is being withheld, Dr. Jones said, pending further investigation of the case.

POLICE Wednesday still were holding in the city jail Charles Ode Thompson, 32, farmhand, Route 1, Circleville, who was nabbed Tuesday noon near Chillicothe by two state highway patrolmen who fired several shots at Thompson during the pursuit after he had eluded Circleville police. No formal charge has been filed against Thompson.

Dr. Jones set the inquest to start at 10 a. m. Friday. However, at that hour no one was in the police station excepting the city building custodian. The coroner said he made two visits to the station but each time was unable to start the proceedings because of absence of policemen. The inquiry finally got under way at 10:50 a. m.

GERMANS STAGE HUNGER RIOTS IN BRITISH ZONE

DUESSELDORF, Germany, March 28—The most serious hunger riot since the beginning of allied occupation of Germany rocked Duesseldorf with violence today as lesser rumblings of protest were heard elsewhere in the industrial Ruhr.

More than 100,000 German men, women and children rampaged through the streets of the once-great city. They overturned military cars, hurled stones and openly taunted the British occupation troops.

A one-day general work stoppage was ordered by trade union leaders, and another general strike was reported in Essen. At Cologne, once the proud "queen of the Rhine," 4,000 workers threatened a strike for increased food rations.

After the Duesseldorf rioters quieted down, a workers delegation presented a list of demands upon the city's commander.

Among these was insistence that "incompetent" officials be replaced by "democratic fighters"; that food be diverted to Duesseldorf from other areas, and that British authorities urge the allied control council to end zonal frontiers as a step toward establishing an all-German planned economy.

M'ARTHUR TELLS JAPS TO BETTER JOB WITH FOOD

TOKYO, March 28—Gen. Douglas MacArthur told the Japanese government today to do a better job in utilizing the nation's food resources.

The supreme allied occupation commander warned that if their present mal-distribution is not corrected allied food shipments to the Japanese people may be discontinued.

MacArthur's stern admonition was contained in a personal letter to Premier Shigeru Yoshida who replied with an assurance that the Tokyo government would do its utmost to eliminate such abuses as black marketeering.

EARLE FEARS RUSSIAN USE OF ATOMIC BOMB

Pennsylvanian Says 90 Pct. Of Americans May Be Dead In Five Years

WASHINGTON, March 28—George Earle, former governor of Pennsylvania, declared today that because the Russians soon will have the atom bomb the chances are better than even that 90 per cent of the American people will be dead five years from now.

Earle, who served as the late President Roosevelt's undercover representative in Turkey in 1943, made his sensational prediction before the house un-American activities committee.

He declared that the situation in the United States today is "completely desperate." He added:

"The super atomic bomb is here and the country that uses it first is almost sure to win. 'I am afraid the people of the United States will never use it first.'

"The Russians may not have the atomic bomb now, but they certainly will have it soon.

"Because of that there is not an even chance that five years from today 10 per cent of us will be alive."

EARLE asserted that Russia has a "fanatical determination" to dominate the world. He pointed out that the Soviets are employing German scientists to rush work on the atomic bomb. THE FORMER governor said that Russia considers the United States its only stumbling block on the road to world conquest. Earle described a hypothetical (Continued on Page Two)

DRAFT BOARD TO MEET LAST TIME MONDAY NIGHT

Pickaway County Selective Service Board, with office in the courthouse in Circleville, will cease to function at midnight Monday.

Final meeting of the board has been scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Monday, by order of Colonel Chester W. Goble, Columbus, state selective service director, who decreed that each of Ohio's 330 local draft boards must hold its final session on or before midnight March 31.

The board is composed of Durward D. Dowden, chairman, Attorney Earl A. Smith, Jay L. Clark, Dr. John L. Spindler, Ashville, and George H. Armstrong, Route 1, Kingston.

Originally the board's chairman was Attorney Emmitt L. Crist but he resigned to accept a major's commission in the Army and he was replaced as a member of the draft board by Attorney Smith. Mr. Dowden then was named chairman.

U. S. AGENTS ARE 'HOT ON TRAIL' OF HITLER AIDE

WASHINGTON, March 28—United States agents today were believed to be hot on the trail of Martin Bormann, ace Nazi war criminal and Adolf Hitler's deputy.

Information reaching Washington was said to indicate that Bormann, identifiable by his squat figure, balding head and an unmistakable "Heidelberg" duelling scar, was last seen enroute from "one spot in Europe to another."

Bormann's objective was said to be Spain where he hoped to achieve haven from the manhunt that has been on for him since V-E day.

With a sentence of death, imposed in his absence by the military tribunal in Nurnberg, hanging over his fugitive head, Bormann is being sought by all the diplomatic and military agents of three countries — the United States, Britain and Russia.

Mine Disaster Death Toll Now At Least 78

WAMAC, Ill., March 28—The toll of known dead in the Wamac mine disaster rose to 78 today. The bodies of five more miners were removed this morning from the Centralia Coal company mine No. 5 which was blasted Tuesday by a terrific explosion.

Sixty-seven bodies have now been recovered from the 540-foot deep mine.

Rescue workers who brought the five bodies to the surface reported spotting 11 more bodies in the maze of tunnels and passageways underground.

Thirty-three men remained unaccounted for.

Most members of the rescue teams, all of them veteran miners, expressed frank fear that none of the missing men would be found alive.

But mine officials continued to maintain hope that perhaps some of the missing might have survived. William Young, vice-president of the company, alerted fire department inhalator squads to be ready for immediate action.

He said rescue teams now inside the mine are equipped with a telephone, ready to communicate immediately with workers above ground in the event life is still found fighting to win its rendezvous with death.

There was a total of 142 men in the shaft when a dust explosion occurred. So far, only 31 are known to have survived.

Robert Medill, director of the Illinois department of mines and minerals, announced at the mine that any investigation of the disaster would have to await completion of all rescue operations.

Two Navy officers also are at the mine, acting as observers. The mine is still under the supervision of the National Coal Mines administration. Federal bureau of mines representatives also are on hand.

Three investigations of the disaster have been ordered.

LEWIS CHARGES KRUG TO BLAME IN MINE DEATHS

WASHINGTON, March 28—John L. Lewis told congress today that "111 mine workers, more or less, have been murdered at Centralia by the criminal negligence of J. A. Krug."

Lewis made his charge when he appeared before a senate public lands committee to oppose the nomination of James Boyd, Colorado, to be chief of inspection for the bureau of mines.

Lewis said that the secretary of interior, now in charge of the mines for the government, "failed to enforce the law and safety code... there is too much blood on our coal."

After assailing Krug, the mine workers chief testified that in his opinion the appointment of Boyd, dean of the Colorado school of mines, was made in a "deal" with Krug. Lewis, his voice raising in anger, testified:

"Krug made a deal with Boyd to give him this job.

"Boyd comes up here and confesses he is not qualified by first hand knowledge, for the post.

"In the name of all the coal miners, the coal miners do not want to protect these mines with only that protection which would come from a man appointed by J. A. Krug to safeguard their safety."

WHISKY RATION TO BE DOUBLED IN NEXT PERIOD

COLUMBUS, O., March 28—The quantity of still rationed whiskeys that each ration card holder may buy will be doubled during the next two-week period, beginning Monday.

Liquor Director Stanley B. Coffey announced today that each purchaser would be entitled to two units of rationed bottled in bonds, straight, blends of straight, Scotch, Canadian or Irish whiskeys.

The director said he hoped to be able to make a decision within 60 days on a date for the end of all liquor rationing.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Good news is as elusive as a Collyer brother but at last we know protocol for a revolving door.

An etiquette expert says it makes no difference whether the lady or gentleman goes first—but he must never ride on her push.

If he grasps the handrail, lifts his feet off the floor and cries "wheel" he is no gentleman.

But let us consider this in its larger sense. Let us say that Greece represents the lady and Russia represents the gentlemen. What then?

We are still in a revolving door.

But don't let it get you down—fingers were made before forks and caves were made before houses.

TAX CUTS FACE SENATE DELAY

Income Tax Reduction Bill Passed By House Must Wait In Senate

WASHINGTON, March 28 — Favorable consideration was looked for today in the senate on the house-approved tax reduction bill, but indications were that no hasty action would be taken.

Members of the senate finance committee expressed belief that some weeks would elapse before floor consideration on the bill cutting personal income taxes 10 to 30 percent.

The senators stated that the tax measure probably would be called up in committee after disposal of legislation for American participation in an international trade organization. After being reported out, the bill must compete for a place on the legislative agenda with numerous other important matters.

The report indicated 5,350 Ohio veterans were enrolled in farm training, compared with approximately 3,000 on Jan. 1. Nearly every county now has a farm program in operation for veterans.

EARLE FEARS RUSSIAN USE OF ATOMIC BOMB

Pennsylvanian Says 90 Per Cent Of Americans May Be Dead In Five Years

WASHINGTON, March 28 — George Earle, former governor of Pennsylvania, declared today that because the Russians soon will have the atom bomb the chances are better than even that 90 per cent of the American people will be dead five years from now.

Earle, who served as the late President Roosevelt's undercover representative in Turkey in 1943, made his sensational prediction before the house un-American activities committee.

He declared that the situation in the United States today is "completely desperate." He added:

"The super atomic bomb is here and the country that uses it first is almost sure to win. 'I am afraid the people of the United States will never use it first.'

"The Russians may not have the atomic bomb now, but they certainly will have it soon."

"Because of that there is not an even chance that five years from today 10 per cent of us will be alive."

EARLE asserted that Russia has a "fanatical determination" to destroy the world. He pointed out that the Soviets are employing German scientists to rush work on the atomic bomb.

THE FORMER governor said that Russia considers the United States its only stumbling block on the road to world conquest. Earle described a hypothetical

DRAFT BOARD TO MEET LAST TIME MONDAY NIGHT

Pickaway County Selective Service Board, with office in the courthouse in Circleville, will cease to function at midnight Monday.

Final meeting of the board has been scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Monday, by order of Colonel Chester W. Goble, Columbus, state selective service director, who decreed that each of Ohio's 330 local draft boards must hold its final session on or before midnight Monday.

The board is composed of Durward D. Dowden, chairman, Attorney Earl A. Smith, Jay L. Clark, Dr. John L. Spindler, Ashville, and George H. Armstrong, Route 1, Kingsport.

Originally the board's chairman was Attorney Emmitt L. Crist but he resigned to accept a major's commission in the Army and he was replaced as a member of the draft board by Attorney Smith. Mr. Dowden then was named chairman.

U. S. AGENTS ARE 'HOT ON TRAIL' OF HITLER AIDE

WASHINGTON, March 28 — United States agents today were believed to be hot on the trail of Martin Bormann, ace Nazi war criminal and Adolf Hitler's deputy.

Information reaching Washington was said to indicate that Bormann, identifiable by his squat figure, balding head and an unmistakable "Heidelberg" duelling scar, was last seen en route from "one spot in Europe to another."

Bormann's objective was said to be Spain where he hoped to achieve haven from the manhunt that has been on for him since V-E day.

With a sentence of death, imposed in his absence by the military tribunal in Nuremberg, hanging over his fugitive head, Bormann is being sought by all the diplomatic and military agents of three countries — the United States, Britain and Russia.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Good news is as elusive as a Collyer brother but at last we know protocol for a revolving door.

An etiquette expert says it makes no difference whether the lady or gentleman goes first—but he must never ride on her push.

If he grasps the handrail, lifts his feet off the floor and cries "wheel!" he is no gentleman.

But let us consider this in its larger sense. Let us say that Greece represents the lady and Russia represents the gentleman. What then?

We are still in a revolving door.

But don't let it get you down—fingers were made before forks and caves were made before houses.

EARLE FEARS RUSSIAN USE OF ATOMIC BOMB

Russian attack on America "in the near future."

He declared Russian or satellite ships could enter such key ports as New York, Boston, Baltimore, with atomic bombs concealed in their cargoes. The bombs, he said, could be timed to explode at a certain moment.

Earle said that in the event a delay was necessary a code message from Moscow to American maritime unions could result in a strike which would hold up unloading of the atom ships.

THE EX-GOVERNOR continued his lurid warning with a description of the possibility of giant submarines appearing off the coast and firing jet-propelled atomic bombs.

He said that fleets of Soviet planes also could destroy American industrial centers.

Rep. Thomas (R) N. J., committee chairman, asked Earle to confine himself to discussion of bills to outlaw the Communist party in the United States, now under consideration.

Earle then declared: "There is not the slightest question but that Communists and fellow travelers in this country should be considered agents of a ruthless enemy bent upon our destruction."

Earle said Turkey "is our only bridgehead against communism in the Middle East."

HE DECLARED that if the United States did not have the atomic bomb Russian armies would have "fanned out over all of Europe and most of Asia after the war."

Earle said there was only one safeguard against "complete obliteration"—complete world inspection.

He declared Russia "couldn't permit such inspection because it would expose horrible internal conditions."

Following the session, Chairman Thomas revealed that the committee had declined to invite the former U. S. minister to Austria and Bulgaria to testify on two previous occasions.

Other than that, Thomas had no comment on Earle's testimony.

WASHINGTON, March 28 — Two top American military leaders have warned congress that new commitments involving the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars must be made by the United States or Russia will take over in Germany, Austria and Korea.

The warning came from Maj. Gen. John H. Hildring, assistant secretary of state, and Lieut. Gen. John B. Hodge, American commander in Korea in secret testimony before the house appropriations committee released today.

They urged the committee to approve an administration request for an additional 300 million dollars for relief in American-occupied countries for the remainder of the current fiscal year ending June 30. Congress previously appropriated $25 million dollars for this purpose.

Impressed by the testimony, the committee voted to approve the entire amount which, it stated, should be sufficient to provide all necessary supplies required until September or October. The funds were included in the first regular deficiency bill of the 80th congress, which will be called up in the house Monday.

AUSTIN URGES UN TO WATCH FOR AGGRESSION

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 28—The United States declared today that the Truman doctrine on Greece and Turkey is designed to give momentum to the United Nations and called upon it to share in global vigilance against aggression.

In a carefully couched statement before the U. N. security council prepared after consultations with President Truman in Washington, U. S. representative Warren R. Austin pressed home America's uncompromising determination to carry through her announced program of aid to Greece and Turkey.

The 3,500-word speech refrained from directly naming Soviet Russia as the main target of the "stop communism" drive but there was little attempt to hide the implied accusation. Austin stepped hard on Russia's toes by pointing to "the danger" that the situation in Greece might deteriorate. He said that effective action by the security council with the United States program of assistance "would materially advance the cause of peace."

BOARD URGED TO RESIGN AT NORTH COLLEGE HILL

CINCINNATI, O., March 28—The entire North College Hill board of education was urged today to resign.

Earl Thesken, principal of the North College Hill high school, offered the suggestion as a means of ending the eight-day-old walkout of more than 700 students in the Cincinnati suburbs. He added that the probate court should then take over operation of the schools.

Meanwhile, Henry Segrist, vice president of the board, charged superintendent William A. Cook with having withheld names of teachers when submitting applications to the board for approval. He added, however, that Dr. Cook had not asked the board to employ the teachers without disclosing their identity.

The attempt to oust Dr. Cook by failure to renew his contract resulted in the student strike. The senior and junior high school pupils have picketed the schools and have been joined by their parents in action to get the board to reconsider and reverse its decision.

hours in the White Swan Cafe on West Main street last Sunday afternoon and night and that they left at 11:30 p. m. Sunday. A 19-year-old youth took the two women home in his automobile, the witness said, and after dropping the younger woman at the York street home he drove the witness to the rural home of his parents west of the post where the lifeless body of Mr. Rossiter was found Monday noon in Hargus Creek 30 feet below a Norfolk and Western Railway trestle at the northwest edge of Circleville.

The witness said she and the youth arrived at the farm about midnight Sunday, that soon afterward they returned to York street, then drove back to the farmhouse and remained there until "3 or 4 o'clock" Monday morning.

The witness insisted that while she knew one of Mr. Rossiter's six brothers and that she knew Mr. Rossiter by sight and knew that he was in the White Swan Sunday night, she denied that, she had talked with him there.

Police declared that others who were in the cafe Sunday night told them that the 29-year-old woman was seated at a table with Mr. Rossiter.

IT WAS disclosed by police and the coroner that inquiry disclosed Mr. Rossiter occasionally stayed overnight in the home of Charles Hutchinson on the Island Road, but that he did not appear there Sunday night. It was also stated that the route he customarily took to reach the Hutchinson home did not take him near the spot where his body was found.

The 29-year-old woman denied all knowledge of Mr. Rossiter's death. Likewise, Thompson has denied all knowledge of the mysterious death.

Dr. Jones has offered no opinion as to the cause of Mr. Rossiter's death other than to say that he died from "suffocation."

His body was partially in about two feet of water with the head out of water and resting against a rock.

THE AUTOPSY showed no broken bones, the coroner said, and he and police asserted that markings noted on the neck of Mr. Rossiter resembled finger prints.

Police said investigation indicated that Mr. Rossiter left the White Swan when the place was closed, at about 12:45 a. m. Monday, but just who may have left with him is undetermined.

Thompson told police that he last saw Mr. Rossiter at 9:30 p. m. Sunday when he Thompson left the White Swan and walked to a tavern operated by Mrs. Frieda Hoffman at South Pickaway and East Corwin streets. His story that he left the Hoffman tavern at 11:30 p. m. Sunday and walked to the farmhouse of Clarence Shaffer on the extension of South Washington street and that when he arrived there about midnight Mrs. Pauline Shaffer called out to him and he answered, was upset when Mrs. Shaffer and also her mother-in-law, Mrs. Clarence Shaffer, told police that the calling out to Thompson occurred Saturday night instead of Sunday night.

OHIO WELFARE, HEALTH FUNDS ARE REQUESTED

COLUMBUS, O., March 28 — Ohio health and welfare authorities joined today in pleas to the state legislature for more funds to carry on their programs.

They outlined their objectives and itemized the shortcomings of various current state programs, as well as progress achieved, in addresses at the Ohio Citizens' assembly on social welfare in Columbus. The two-day assembly was sponsored by the Ohio Welfare Council.

The speakers included state welfare director Charles L. Sherwood, state health director Roger Heering, state commissioner of mental hygiene Frank F. Tallman and Bleeker Marquette, executive secretary of the public health federation of Cincinnati.

Governor Herbert, also attending the assembly, said that he expected to submit his administration's additions and betterments bill to the legislature within a month.

TAX CUTS FACE SENATE DELAY

the support of Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) Ohio, chairman of the Republican policy committee.

Such action would cut in half the three billion 836 million reduction in taxes which the house bill would provide for 48 million taxpayers this year.

Sen. Millikin (R) Colo., finance committee chairman, said he deemed it advisable for congress to obtain agreement on a budget for 1948 before reducing taxes.

SENATE and house conferees have been unable to agree as yet on a budget. The house voted to cut President Truman's 37 1/2 billion dollar budget by six billion dollars, but the senate voted for a 4 1/2 billion dollar reduction. Only one meeting of the conferees has been held at which the house members rejected a proposed compromise of 5 1/2 billion dollars reduction.

The Republican-backed tax bill, sponsored by Rep. Knutson (R) Minn., ways and means committee chairman, breezed through the house after two days of bitter, partisan debate by a vote of 2 to 1.

Three Republicans — Engel, Mich., Andersen, Minn., and Buffett, Nebr. — joined with 133 Democrats and one American laborite (Marcantonio N. Y.) in opposing the bill, while 273 Republicans and Democrats voted for passage.

DEATH CLAIMS BASEBALL HERO

"Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance," became a national by-word. Shortstop Joseph L. Tinker in the famous combination is now living in Florida. Frank Chance, the Cubs' immortal first baseman, died a number of years ago.

THE PHRASE became synonymous with defensive perfection, whenever the infield of a latter-day big league team was praised for its slick, smooth co-ordination and speed in reeling off double plays, the hall-mark of a successful club.

Evers, the pivot man in the combination, also was the spark plug of the trio. Always a live wire, his driving spirit was a powerful factor for club morale both on and off the field.

Evers weighed no more than 130 pounds during his playing years, but his keen brains more than made up for the "mighty mite's" lack of stature. In 1908 he engineered the play which threw the National League race into a tie between the Cubs and Giants. This made a playoff necessary. Chicago won it and qualified for the World Series for the third straight year.

ALL OLD-TIME baseball fans recall the play because it earned Fred Merkle, big first baseman of the Giants, the moniker of "goat". During the crucial regular-season game with the Cubs, Merkle forgot to touch second base. Evers, his brain as keen as usual, called for the ball and touched the base.

After leaving the Cubs, Evers reached his playing peak in 1914. That year, he sparked the Boston Braves in their sensational rise from last place on July 4, to a pennant and a world's championship. The inspired Braves knocked off the supposedly invincible Philadelphia Athletics in four straight games. Johnny later went to the Phillies, only to return to the Braves as a scout.

FORT HAYES TO BE CLOSED BY ARMY JUNE 30

WASHINGTON, March 28 — The war department announced today that budget and personnel limitations will force the closing of 55 army posts, stations and air fields by June 30.

The shut-downs will also take the jobs of 42,000 civilian employees who will be given job termination notices as soon as possible.

The department said that 35 installations will be declared surplus, and 20 more will be placed on inactive, or caretaker status.

Installations to be declared surplus include: Cambridge engineers sub depot, Ohio; Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.; Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio.

Porter urged immediate action on Mr. Truman's proposal to halt the spread of communism at the Greek border through economic aid.

dollars into the country in order to finance reparations to Russia.

In the opinion of American delegates, such financing would be necessary if reparations are granted on anything approaching the scale of the 10 billion dollars the Soviets are demanding.

American observers put it this way. If Russia agreed to reduce her reparations demands to a reasonable level, and accepted the principle that occupation costs and imports be the first charge against current production, the United States would consider raising the level of German industry to permit payments out of current production.

United States sources fear that the Soviets will not recede to the figure of 200 million dollars annually that they consider reasonable. The Russians want half a billion dollars a year from Germany for the next two decades.

EARLE FEARS RUSSIAN USE OF ATOMIC BOMB

hours in the White Swan Cafe on West Main street last Sunday afternoon and night and that they left at 11:30 p. m. Sunday. A 19-year-old youth took the two women home in his automobile, the witness said, and after dropping the younger woman at the York street home he drove the witness to the rural home of his parents west of the post where the lifeless body of Mr. Rossiter was found Monday noon in Hargus Creek 30 feet below a Norfolk and Western Railway trestle at the northwest edge of Circleville.

The witness said she and the youth arrived at the farm about midnight Sunday, that soon afterward they returned to York street, then drove back to the farmhouse and remained there until "3 or 4 o'clock" Monday morning.

The witness insisted that while she knew one of Mr. Rossiter's six brothers and that she knew Mr. Rossiter by sight and knew that he was in the White Swan Sunday night, she denied that she had talked with him there.

Police declared that others who were in the cafe Sunday night told them that the 29-year-old woman was seated at a table with Mr. Rossiter.

IT WAS disclosed by police and the coroner that inquiry disclosed Mr. Rossiter occasionally stayed overnight in the home of Charles Hutchinson on the Island Road, but that he did not appear there Sunday night. It was also stated that the route he customarily took toward the Hutchinson home did not take him near the spot where his body was found.

The 29-year-old woman denied all knowledge of Mr. Rossiter's death. Likewise, Thompson has denied all knowledge of the mysterious death.

Dr. Jonnes has offered no opinion as to the cause of Mr. Rossiter's death other than to say that he died from "suffocation."

His body was partially in about two feet of water with the head out of water and resting against a rock.

THE AUTOPSY showed no broken bones, the coroner said, and he and police asserted that markings noted on the neck of Mr. Rossiter resembled finger prints.

Police said investigation indicated that Mr. Rossiter left the White Swan when the place was closed, at about 12:45 a. m. Monday, but just who may have left with him is undetermined.

Thompson told police that he last saw Mr. Rossiter at 9:30 p. m. Sunday when he Thompson left the White Swan and walked to a tavern operated by Mrs. Frieda Hoffman at South Pickaway and East Corwin streets. His story that he left the Hoffman tavern at 11:30 p. m. Sunday and walked to the farmhouse of Clarence Shaffer on the extension of South Washington street and that when he arrived there about midnight Mrs. Pauline Shaffer called out to him and he answered, was upset when Mrs. Shaffer and also her mother-in-law, Mrs. Clarence Shaffer, told police that the calling out to Thompson occurred Saturday night instead of Sunday night.

OHIO WELFARE, HEALTH FUNDS ARE REQUESTED

COLUMBUS, O., March 28 — Ohio health and welfare authorities joined today in pleas to the state legislature for more funds to carry on their programs.

They outlined their objectives and itemized the shortcomings of various current state programs, as well as progress achieved, in addresses at the Ohio Citizens' assembly on social welfare in Columbus. The two-day assembly was sponsored by the Ohio Welfare Council.

The speakers included state welfare director Charles L. Sherwood, state health director Roger Heering, state commissioner of mental hygiene Frank F. Tallman and Bleeker Marquette, executive secretary of the public health federation of Cincinnati.

Governor Herbert, also attending the assembly, said that he expected to submit his administration's additions and betterments bill to the legislature within a month.

the support of Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) Ohio, chairman of the Republican policy committee.

Such action would cut in half the three billion $36 million reduction in taxes which the house bill would provide for 48 million taxpayers this year.

Sen. Millikin (R) Colo., finance committee chairman, said he deemed it advisable for congress to obtain agreement on a budget for 1948 before reducing taxes.

SENATE and house conferees have been unable to agree as yet on a budget. The house voted to cut President Truman's 37 1/2 billion dollar budget by six billion dollars, but the senate voted for a 4 1/2 billion dollar reduction. Only one meeting of the conferees has been held at which the house members rejected a proposed compromise of 5 1/2 billion dollars reduction.

The Republican-backed tax bill, sponsored by Rep. Knutson (R) Minn., ways and means committee chairman, breezed through the house after two days of bitter, partisan debate by a vote of 2 to 1.

Three Republicans — Engel, Mich., Andersen, Minn., and Buffett, Nebr. — joined with 133 Democrats and one American laborite (Marcantonio N. Y.) in opposing the bill, while 273 Republicans and Democrats voted for passage.

"Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance," became a national by-word.

Shortstop Joseph L. Tinker in the famous combination is now living in Florida. Frank Chance, the Cubs' immortal first baseman, died a number of years ago.

THE PHRASE became synonymous with defensive perfection, whenever the infield of a latter-day big league team was praised for its slick, smooth co-ordination and speed in reeling off double plays, the hall-mark of a successful club.

Evers, the pivot man in the combination, also was the spark plug of the trio. Always a live wire, his driving spirit was a powerful factor for club morale both on and off the field.

Evers weighed no more than 130 pounds during his playing years, but his keen brains more than made up for the "mighty mite's" lack of stature. In 1908 he engineered the play which threw the National League race into a tie between the Cubs and Giants. This made a playoff necessary. Chicago won it and qualified for the World Series for the third straight year.

ALL OLD-TIME baseball fans recall the play because it earned Fred Merkle, big first baseman of the Giants, the moniker of "goat". During the crucial regular-season game with the Cubs, Merkle forgot to touch second base. Evers, his brain as keen as usual, called for the ball and touched the base.

After leaving the Cubs, Evers reached his playing peak in 1914. That year, he sparked the Boston Braves in their sensational rise from last place on July 4, to a pennant and a world's championship. The inspired Braves knocked off the supposedly invincible Philadelphia Athletics in four straight games. Johnny later went to the Phillies, only to return to the Braves as a scout.

CAFE BURGLARIZED

When Albert Reed opened his tavern known as "Old Ab's Place", South Court and Ohio streets, Friday morning, he discovered it had been burglarized. Reed told police the loot included five fifths of whiskey, two fifths of wine, and about 150 pennies. Entrance was gained by breaking the front door glass and then reaching in and throwing the night lock.

FORT HAYES TO BE CLOSED BY ARMY JUNE 30

WASHINGTON, March 28 — The war department announced today that budget and personnel limitations will force the closing of 55 army posts, stations and air fields by June 30.

The shut-downs will also take the jobs of 42,000 civilian employees who will be given job termination notices as soon as possible.

The department said that 35 installations will be declared surplus, and 20 more will be placed on inactive, or caretaker status. Installations to be declared surplus include: Cambridge engineers sub depot, Ohio; Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.; Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio.

PORTER URGES QUICK ACTION ON BALKAN AID

WASHINGTON, March 28 — Paul A. Porter told congress today that Greece has "her last clear chance for independence" in American aid.

The head of President Truman's economic mission to Greece declared before the house foreign affairs committee that the war-ravaged nation is "living on borrowed time — in the hope of prompt American assistance."

Porter urged immediate action on Mr. Truman's proposal to halt the spread of communism at the Greek border through economic aid.

dollars into the country in order to finance reparations to Russia. In the opinion of American delegates, such financing would be necessary if reparations are granted on anything approaching the scale of the 10 billion dollars the Soviets are demanding.

American observers put it this way. If Russia agreed to reduce her reparations demands to a reasonable level, and accepted the principle that occupation costs and imports be the first charge against current production, the United States would consider raising the level of German industry to permit payments out of current production.

United States sources fear that the Soviets will not recede to the figure of 200 million dollars annually that they consider reasonable. The Russians want half a billion dollars a year from Germany for the next two decades.

Motorists have only through Monday to buy their 1947 license plates. The new plates must be affixed to all motor vehicles in operation after 12 midnight Monday under Ohio law.

The new license tags — with white numerals on a field of green—are now on sale by four deputy registrars in Pickaway county. Front license plates were dispensed with during World War II and now duplicate plates—for front and rear—are being issued for the first time since 1942.

The state motor vehicle department has announced that there will be no extension of time for affixing the 1947 licenses.

Each purchaser may install the plates as soon as purchased or may attach them after midnight Monday.

Mrs. Ruth Wignell, Circleville deputy registrar, is issuing licenses at 118 East Franklin street.

The three other deputy registrars are: L. E. Foreman, 1 East Main street, Ashville; Anna-belle Echard, New Holland; and Mrs. D. H. Marcy, Williamsport.

The "Duke of Exeter's Daughter" was a nickname given in the 15th century to an English instrument of torture erected by the Duke of Exeter. It was never used, as judges decided it would be unconstitutional, so was put away in the Tower of London, where it is today.

Monday IS LAST DAY TO USE OLD LICENSE TAGS

Motorists have only through Monday to buy their 1947 license plates. The new plates must be affixed to all motor vehicles in operation after 12 midnight Monday under Ohio law.

The new license tags—with white numerals on a field of green—are now on sale by four deputy registrars in Pickaway county. Front license plates were dispensed with during World War II and now duplicate plates—for front and rear—are being issued for the first time since 1942.

The state motor vehicle department has announced that there will be no extension of time for affixing the 1947 licenses. Each purchaser may install the plates as soon as purchased or may attach them after midnight Monday.

Mrs. Ruth Wignel, Circleville deputy registrar, is issuing licenses at 118 East Franklin street.

The three other deputy registrars are: L. E. Foreman, 1 East Main street, Ashville; Anabelle Echard, New Holland; and Mrs. D. H. Marcy, Williamsport.

METHODISTS AT WILLIAMSPORT PLAN SERVICES

Beginning with the services next Sunday the Williamsport Methodist Church Holy Week services will be held as follows:

Sunday School 9:30. Morning worship 10:30, at which time a beautiful and inspiring religious painting by Charles F. Johnston, local artist, will be unveiled and dedicated in memory of Vonley H. Johnston a son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, who was a member of this church and gave his life in World War I. He was a member of Co. F. of the Rainbow Division and lost his life at Serinages, France, July 29, 1918. Also there will be baptisms and the reception of new members into the fellowship of the church. The Rev. J. H. Sudlow, the pastor, will preach on the subject of "A Glorified Life."

Evening worship 7:30. Sermon subject "The Man Under a Shadow". Youth Fellowship will meet at the church at 5:45 p. m. Special music will be a part of each service during the week.

Worship service each evening at 7:30 except Saturday, the pastor using the following sermon topics: Monday—"The Lost Axe"; Tuesday—"From One Room to Another"; Wednesday—"Were You There?"; Thursday—"Behold The Man"; Good Friday—"Behold The Man"; Good Friday, Candle Light Communion Service. Meditation subject "Are Ye Able?"

Easter Sunday: Sunrise Service 6:30, Sunday School 9:30, morning worship 10:30, Sermon subject "A Glorious Easter".

AVCO PLANT IS NOW OPERATING IN CIRCLEVILLE

Shipments Being Made From Plant; Company's Name Is Changed

Horton Manufacturing Division of the Avco Manufacturing Corporation, whose Clinton street plant in Circleville is now in production and has already made some shipments, is the producer of an ingenious automatic garage door opener which already is meeting with popularity throughout the nation.

The title of the parent company, it was learned Friday, has been changed from Aviation Corporation to Avco Manufacturing Corporation. The stockholders, in session Tuesday at Wilmington, Del., approved the change in name and elected five new members of the board of directors.

New directors are: R. C. Cosgrove, vice president in charge of sales and general manager of the Crosley Division; Carl H. Kindl, vice president in charge of manufacturing; J. H. Oppenheim, vice president and general manager of the New Idea Division; James D. Shouse, vice president in charge of broadcasting and president of the corporation's wholly-owned subsidiary, Crosley Broadcasting Corporation; and Harry Woodhead, president of Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation, an associated company.

CHANGE in name of the corporation resulted from a broad shift in the scope of its operations during recent years, it was pointed out. At present the corporation is a widely-diversified manufacturing organization with more than three-fourths of its assets in fields other than aviation.

During the last 18 months Avco has become important in the fields of household appliances, farm equipment and radio broadcasting through its acquisition of Crosley Corporation, New Idea, Inc., and a former associated company, American Central Manufacturing Corporation.

Irving B. Babcock, Avco president and chairman of the annual meeting Tuesday told the stockholders that earnings for the first quarter of 1947, to be made known soon, are expected to show a substantial increase over the corresponding period a year ago.

The unique garage door opener, manufactured in Circleville by the Horton Manufacturing Division, opens the garage door automatically and also closes the garage doors, while the motorist remains in the car. Both operations are accomplished merely by finger pressure on a button on the dashboard of the automobile. Furthermore the garage lights are turned on when the door opens and the lights are extinguished when the door closes.

OHIO FARMERS FEAR DISEASE, ACCIDENTS. MOST

Two fears stand out in the minds of Ohio farmers today—accidents and disease—the latest report of the Ohio Farm Bureau Advisory Councils reveals, Harry Culberth, organization director, said today. The councils, reaching a cross section of farmers in the state, are neighborhood discussion groups which bolster a membership of nearly 15,000.

Council members studying the topic "security" during the month concluded that the business of farming is hazardous since there is a high rate of accidents and facilities for administering to the sick in most rural areas of the state are inadequate.

Two solutions to the problems are offered. Since most accidents are caused by carelessness and haste, members decided that farmers need to become more safety conscious. They also agreed that farmers should provide insurance covering all types of accidents.

In regard to rural health, council members agreed that county health departments need more money in many cases to carry on their work. The main function of these departments, they feel, should be to prevent illness and the spread of disease. The need for county clinics is great.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wean, Portsmouth, have purchased the Schiff dwelling on East street now occupied by Lud Oesterle and expect to move to Ashville about May 15.

A fair-sized crowd attended the March meeting of the Ashville P.T.A. Thursday evening to enjoy a well-balanced program. Besides the business meeting conducted by Roy Hedges, the Rev. A. B. Albertson had charge of the devotionals, and Richard Bell of the First Community Church, Columbus, spoke on "What the Church Can Do for its Youth". Mr. Bell, youth activity director in a church of some 3100 members, stated that the church program should meet all the growth needs of all age children not satisfied by some other organization. The annual family night program will be held Friday, April 25.

It's Your Buick — but our Sweetheart

LOOK AT YOUR BUICK
everyone else does

Your Buick has lines and style that win wolf calls. Are you keeping it smart and handsome as it should be? Are you protecting its good looks, its luster and color?

There's a way to do it that Buick engineers say is right. It's called Porcelainizing. This is a power-buffed finish that gives a smooth glaze to the body paint, sealing the pores and protecting the surface against road grime and dirt.

That's the way we do it here. Try it. See how it keeps a new car lustrous longer — how it gives older ones a new lease on good looks.

IT ALWAYS PAYS TO GET BUICK CAR CARE

When you first slipped behind the wheel of that Buick of yours, remember how your heart lifted? Remember your happy smile as your toe touched off the hum of Buick Fireball power? And your widening grin when all roads seemed downy as you winged along on Buick Coil springing?

That's what Buicks are built to do. And they'll do it long and well when they're cared for as anything so fine should be.

Not just an occasional oil change, mind you. Not a haphazard "Look 'er over, fill the battery, check the air." But interested, competent, understanding car care that keeps your Buick at its best.

That's exactly what we're set to give. In our shop we have the special Buick tools to do jobs quicker and better. In our parts department is a stock of Buick engineered parts for Buick cars. And we have a staff of thoughtful, capable specialists who know their Buicks lock, stock and barrel.

No, it's not ordinary service you get here. It's expert car care — by an organization devoted to seeing that you get the most out of your Buick. And surprisingly, for the same work done, it costs no more.

Think it over. Isn't it wise to let us care for your Buick? After all, Buicks are our sweethearts, first, last and always.

It's Your Buick—but our Sweetheart

LOOK AT YOUR BUICK
everyone else does

Your Buick has lines and style that win wolf calls. Are you keeping it smart and handsome as it should be? Are you protecting its good looks, its luster and color?

There's a way to do it that Buick engineers say is right. It's called Porcelainizing. This is a power-buffed finish that gives a smooth glaze to the body paint, sealing the pores and protecting the surface against road grime and dirt.

That's the way we do it here. Try it. See how it keeps a new car lustrous longer—how it gives older ones a new lease on good looks.

IT ALWAYS PAYS TO GET BUICK CAR CARE

BUICK CARE KEEPS BUICKS BEST

LOOK AT YOUR BUICK
everyone else does

When you first slipped behind the wheel of that Buick of yours, remember how your heart lifted? Remember your happy smile as your toe touched off the hum of Buick Fireball power? And your widening grin when all roads seemed downy as you winged along on BuicOil springing?

That's what Buicks are built to do. And they'll do it long and well when they're cared for as anything so fine should be.

Not just an occasional oil change, mind you. Not a haphazard "Look 'er over, fill the battery, check the air." But interested, competent, understanding car care that keeps your Buick at its best.

That's exactly what we're set to give. In our shop we have the special Buick tools to do jobs quicker and better. In our parts department is a stock of Buick engineered parts for Buick cars. And we have a staff of thoughtful, capable specialists who know their Buicks lock, stock and barrel.

No, it's not ordinary service you get here. It's expert car care—by an organization devoted to seeing that you get the most out of your Buick. And surprisingly, for the same work done, it costs no more.

Think it over. Isn't it wise to let us care for your Buick? After all, Buicks are our sweethearts, first, last and always.

Blue Ribbon Wins City Industrial Basketball League Title

DAIRYMEN WIN BY 45-29 SCORE OVER ASHVILLE

KP Team Trounced in Final Game Of City League Playoffs Here

Blue Ribbon Dairy team Friday held the City Industrial Basketball league championship.

The Dairymen, flashing the form that carried them to a first round championship in the local league, trounced Ashville KP 45-29 in the finals of the season's playoffs Thursday night in Roll and Bowl. Ashville had been one of the teams tied for first place the second round and have survived elimination playoffs to gain the finals.

Too much Blue Ribbon height and inability to hit shots eliminated Ashville. All of the Ashville players were missing and Dick Messick fouled out in the third quarter.

Meanwhile, long Bill Weller was leading the Blue Ribbon scoring parade. The elongated center dropped in 13 points and grabbed most of the rebounds at both ends of the floor. He had plenty of help from Joe Anderson who scored 10 points and Bob Young, who had nine.

Blue Ribbon played a more conservative game than usual with Leon Sims and "Chub" Valentine working the ball in to the tall boys under the basket.

All of the Ashville players were missing and Dick Messick fouled out in the third quarter.

Neither Clarkburg Rangers nor most members of the Eshelman Feeds team showed up for the scheduled preliminary contest. A game between two pick-up teams was played before the final contest.

BUCK GRIDDERS STILL AWAITING WEATHER BREAK

COLUMBUS, O., March 28 — Ohio State's Buck gridders continued to battle the weather today as their first week of Spring practice neared an end.

Wes Fesler's hopefuls, after being forced indoors Wednesday, returned to the wide open spaces yesterday.

Fesler's eight-man coaching staff received yet another addition yesterday with the announcement that Don McCafferty, New York Giants pro star, will help with the Buck ends during Spring drills. McCafferty was a member of Ohio State's 1942 national championship team.

JOE DIMAGGIO MAY HAVE MORE HEEL TROUBLE

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA., March 28—There is a grim possibility Joe DiMaggio may have to go through the rest of his major league career handicapped by fear of a recurrence of the heel injury which has crippled him since last season.

According to private advices today from Baltimore, the Yankee star who arrived here yesterday after spending a month in Johns Hopkins hospital, has recovered nicely from his skin grafting operation. But physicians, it is revealed, refuse to give any guarantee that the operation will be a permanent success.

Any sudden knock against the heel or a twist of the foot could break down the tissue again. Then Joe would be laid up for weeks or months while undergoing a new operation and a new healing process.

Mark well the words "could break down the tissue," however. They contain a bright ray of hope for DiMaggio and for his teammates who sorely need the inspiration of his bat and fielding skill.

Physicians do not believe that another crippling accident necessarily has to happen to Joe while he pursues his career as an outfield star. They merely point to the possibility of it.

SWIM TITLES AT STAKE IN COAST RELAY SATURDAY

SEATTLE, March 28 — Eleven national collegiate swimming and diving championships are at stake today and tomorrow in Seattle. Winners of the N.C.A.A. events will maintain America's 1948 Olympic team.

Two world record holders, four defending champions and last year's winning squad in the 300-yard medley relay will be on hand for the two-day meet at the University of Washington pool.

A kinky-haired Hawaiian, Bill Smith, who holds global marks in both the 220-yard free-style distance and the 440, will perform in those events for his alma mater, Ohio State.

Defending champions from last year include Stanford's sprint star, Bob Anderson, in the 50; Charles Keating, Cincinnati U., in the breast-stroke; Halo Hirose, Ohio State, in the 100-yard freestyle; and Miller Anderson, Ohio State, high and low board division.

Ohio State is also defending its laurels in the medley relay.

Training Camp Briefs

HAVANA—Manager Leo Durocher today was considering the possibility of swinging a deal with the Giants for their first baseman, Johnny Mize.

Inasmuch as Mel Ott's team needs pitchers of which Brooklyn has an abundance, the proposition would involve trading Vic Lombardi and Hank Behrman in exchange for Mize.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 28 — Outfielder Joe DiMaggio said today he would be unable to get in shape in time for the season's inaugural game, April 14.

Looking pale and eight pounds below his playing weight of 198, DiMaggio limped into the Yankee quarters after a flying trip from Baltimore, where he had undergone an operation on his left heel at Johns Hopkins hospital.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28—Cliff Melton, ex-Giant pitcher, will hurl against his former teammates in tonight's rubber game between the New York Giants and the San Francisco Seals.

Opposing Lefty O'Doul's star will be Dave Koslo, a southpaw and Mel Ott's sturdiest pitcher of last season.

PASADENA, Cal., March 28—The Chicago White Sox today prepared to leave their training camp at Pasadena, with Manager Ted Lyons still undecided on the status of Jimmy Delsing, brilliant rookie outfielder.

Delsing, originally slated to be farmed out, smashed out two triples yesterday as the Pale Hose scored a 10 to 2 victory over the Sacramento, Cal., Bees.

REFUGIO IS U. S. HOPE IN TOUGH GRAND NATIONAL

AINTREE RACE TRACK, ENGLAND, March 28—Refugio, a nine-year-old steeplechaser, will carry the hopes of Americans in Saturday's historic Grand National Steeplechase, toughest horse race in the world.

Refugio, bred, owned, trained and ridden in the United States, is not one of the favorites. But anything can happen in this most hazardous of races, over a gruelling course of four miles, 856 yards with 30 difficult hurdles, including the famed Beecher's Brook and Valentine Brook jumps.

Refugio, which will carry 154 pounds, is owned by Mrs. Frank Adams, Middleburg, Virginia. Jockey Frank Adams, who did all right over the jumps at the New York tracks where he was a prime favorite, is going to have the ride of his young life tomorrow.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 28—The avoided and practically unmentioned background of the Greek-Turk aid measures is simply this:

A Russo-Bulgar-Yugoslav plan is supposed to start now to sever Macedonia from Greece, and create there a separate new Balkan state under Communist control. A Spring merger of offensives to this end is supposed, common report among underground agencies including the British) to have been planned at a meeting of Zhukov, Tolbukin and Tito last September. Simultaneously a revolt within Turkey, sponsored by Kurds encouraged by Moscow, is expected to get underway through guerilla activities of small bands.

The Turkish part of the plan is not well organized. The Turks spend 60 percent of their budget for arms, are convinced the revolt will lead to World War III and are willing to fight.

The Greek guerilla forces, however, are supposed to number about 5,000 infantry, mostly Communist, supposed to enjoy excellent connivance from Bulgaria, Albania and Yugoslavia. The Albanians, for instance, have two divisions on the Greek border. The anti-government movement within Greece as a whole is regarded as being supported by perhaps 15 per cent of the population. To thwart the guerilla effort before it gets under way, the Greek army is now moving northward, and attacking the known guerilla areas, although they are hampered by bad communications, including destroyed railroad stock and damaged roadbeds.

The average world diplomat sees more world war possibilities than exist in these potentialities, because Russia is everywhere a hidden partner, unwilling to accept open responsibility. Military men think the Communist withdrawal in North China may have been recently undertaken to clear the way for the Spring Balkan campaign. At any rate it was this situation from which Britain announced withdrawal of her troops from Greece (March 31) and into which Mr. Truman proposes to move with money for a local defense line.

The money plans have now been concluded. Mr. Truman is to give $400 million in nearly any way he sees fit (loans, grants, advances) of which $300 million will go to Greece. Of this amount, 150 million will be purely military advances (rations, clothing) and $150 million civilian including $50 million for equipment (railroads and road reconstruction,) $20 million for agricultural rehabilitation and $80 million for internal costs including administration. The Turks are to get the other $100 million mostly in military material but including some work on the roads and improvement of railroads. The human relief advances are to be in addition to this and centered in $50 million for Greece in a general $350 million Balkan food relief bill. In addition, the Greek war relief association in this country is raising $12 million under approval of the President, Herbert Hoover, Gov. Dewey and others to give medical, child and direct relief assistance.

None of these relief ventures, of course, is really new. UNRRA figures show that

Painful Symptoms Which May Follow Gallbladder Operation

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WHEN a patient has his gallbladder removed because of inflammation or gallstones, he expects to be relieved of the painful symptoms which troubled him before operation. And, in most instances, he is relieved, but unfortunately for such a patient, occasionally he develops symptoms after his operation similar to those the operation was designed to cure.

This is a very puzzling and unsatisfactory situation. The trouble-making gallbladder is gone and yet the trouble continues in the form of pain in the right upper part of the abdomen, indigestion, the formation of large amounts of gas in the stomach and bowel and often nausea.

Secondary Pain

The secondary pain comes on suddenly, sometimes passing into the back and upward into the right shoulder. After it subsides, tenderness of the muscles often persists.

Such attacks may come at varying periods after operation, sometimes making their appearance within a few months, in other instances holding off for as long as ten years.

According to Dr. Maurice Lee of England, these symptoms are in some cases due to spasm of a muscle which controls the flow of bile from the liver into the small intestine. Under ordinary conditions during digestion this muscle relaxes, the gallbladder contracts and bile is then discharged into the small intestine. However, after removal of the gallbladder, spasm of this muscle keeps the bile from emptying into the intestine and this is responsible for the pain and other symptoms which develop.

Treating the Disorder

In treating the disorder, the doctor finds that such drugs as amyl nitrite or nitroglycerin are often found to be helpful in relieving the attacks of pain, since they tend to relax the muscle spasm. If there is pain which continues over a long period of time, certain preparations which act like atropine may also be employed to help relax the muscle spasm. The giving of bile salts and magnesium sulfate also, would seem to help drain the bile passages.

If the symptoms persist even with this treatment, further operative measures may be necessary. Following this operation a permanent cure usually results.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

SHERRY LET Lex talk on, not interrupting, hoping it would help. She learned that he had met Kay only a few months before he went into service and that the attraction between them had been strong and swift. Normally, Lex would have gone on working for Kay's father and he and Kay would have got engaged and then married. They would have rented an apartment and, later on, bought a house in a good suburb, not too far out from the city. That was still the pattern Kay wanted their married life to follow.

But Lex had changed, or, rather, he had found himself. The war had jolted him out of the rut in which he had been fairly contented so long as he knew no other way of life. During his training, his service in England and France, he had gained a different perspective, one that enabled him to see the narrowness of his former existence. The mere making of money at a job that bored him no longer seemed a sufficient incentive. His sense of values had altered. And, when he came home, he found himself feeling crowded and hemmed in by the city, profoundly disturbed by the throngs of people all about, the rushing, noisy tempo.

Lex told Sherry, "But when I tried to make Kay understand how I felt—she thought I was actually a little off the beam. She wanted me to see a psychiatrist."

"But that's absurd," Sherry said. "Lots of people hate the city. Getting away from it had simply opened your eyes. And why would you want to pick up where you'd left off when you realized how much happier you'd be living on a farm?"

Lex said, "I can't make Kay see it that way. When I took that agricultural course, she thought it was just a crazy whim. Then, when I began working for Steve, she realized I was serious." His blue eyes were troubled, questioning, on Sherry's face. "She says I'm not being fair to her—and maybe she's right. I don't know. And she says she hates the country—but how can you hate a way of life you know nothing about?"

"Maybe," Sherry said, "that's why she hates it—because she doesn't know it. Some city people seem to think all farmers are ignorant and backward, that you're as good as buried in the country. If you could get Kay to come out here sometime and meet Steve and Aunt Pen and their friends, surely she'd see how mistaken she is."

"You think I haven't tried? She won't come. All we do is quarrel—and still I'm crazy about her. She's so beautiful, Sherry. She can be gay and sweet. If I'd give in to her way of thinking, she'd marry me right away. But—I can't!" He put his palms on the table, pushed himself to his feet. "Maybe we can work it out some time—God knows I hope so! At least, we won't be quarreling for a while—I learned that last night."

"What do you mean?"

"Kay's going to Palm Beach for six weeks. I expect she thinks the absent treatment will bring me to what she considers my senses more quickly and effectively than anything else."

Sherry could only say, inadequately, "I'm sorry, Lex."

"Thanks. You were swell to let me get it all off my chest."

He grinned down at her briefly. The friendliness of his glance warmed her. Surely he must like her a little, to take her so fully into his confidence.

Life at the farm was a busy routine into which Sherry fitted easily and which she loved. She rose early and retired early, just as the others did. She helped Aunt Pen with the housework, augmenting the willing, but not too skillful help of the young hired girl, Etta. Sherry wasn't very skillful, either, but she was interested and quick to learn. And Aunt Pen took pleasure in teaching her.

Steve and Lex, along with the other hired man, Jed Porter, were endlessly busy out-of-doors and around the big barns, even in this winter season. Sherry spent all the time she could with them, doing any small job they entrusted to her, enjoying to the full every minute of friendly association. She looked like an eager, long-legged child, in her blue jeans and leather jacket, her hair imprisoned under a bright peasant kerchief.

Steve said once, "Well, make a farmer of her yet, won't we, Lex?"

And Lex answered, grinning, "You bet! A darned good farmer."

Sherry felt pride out of all proportion rise within her.

It seemed to her, during that week's stay at Steve's farm, that the richness and satisfaction of country living became more clearly apparent to her than ever before. Spending so much time with Steve and Lex, listening to their talk, asking questions and so learning, Sherry began to understand and share Steve's sound and deeply rooted philosophy of living. Steve was a firm believer in the importance of agriculture to the economy of the nation as a whole. But, more personally, he felt that no other field of endeavor offered such rich rewards, not in money, but in the deeper and more important fundamentals of life. A man could earn, on even a fairly small farm, enough for the comfortable support of himself and his family. And beyond that, he could do work that was never monotonous to the understanding mind. He could drive a tractor, plant and harvest his crops, renew and preserve the productivity of his soil, attend to the needs of his animals. Each day encompassed a countless variety of engrossing tasks that enlivened the spirit and stirred the imagination and wearied the body with healthful outdoor exercise. No farmer need envy a man at an office desk, doing the same job over and over, nor a factory worker, engaged on his monotonous stint in the noisy atmosphere of whirling machinery and crowding fellow humans.

Sherry could see how Lex's mind met Steve's, how similar were their viewpoints, how close their understanding. And she saw how Lex was learning, not only from Steve, but from the work he did each day. And she saw, too, how much he loved that work, how richly content he would have been, were it not for the nagging, tormenting thought of Kay.

The enchanted days sped past. Sherry helped exercise the horses, she skated with Lex and Steve on the frozen pond. A party of neighboring young people invited her and Lex to go on a moonlight toboggan party. Racing down the snowy hillside, the chill fresh wind whipping the breath back into your throat, was like flying. And trudging up again afterwards, two by two, laughing and singing and pulling the big sled, was fun, too. Sherry wished time could stop for a while.

But Leda would be home Sunday evening, she would expect Sherry to be there to welcome her. Also there were engagements awaiting Sherry for the week ahead, luncheons, a theater party, a charity ball which she had promised to attend with Joel Pemberton. The crowded, familiar routine of her life waited ahead to absorb her once more in hectic busyness, boring and unimportant. In it there was none of the reality, the fundamental meaning, she found in her days at the farm. It was like an endless ride on a gaily painted carousel, all movement and color, but getting nowhere. Now, after a brief respite, it was almost time for the music to start up again.

On Saturday Aunt Pen suggested, "There's a square dance in town tonight. Why don't you two go?"

"Sounds like fun," Lex glanced inquiringly at Sherry. "How about it?"

"Well," Sherry said, a little embarrassed, "If you're sure you want to, but don't let this domineering woman put you in a spot."

"Nonsense!" Aunt Pen beamed. "It'll do you both good."

"I've never been to a square dance," Sherry confessed.

"Nor I," Lex said. "We'll lend each other moral support."

Words of Wisdom

Death is the crown of life; were it denied, to live would not be life, and even fools would wish to die. Death wounds to cure; we fall to rise and reign; spring from our fetters; fasten in the skies. — Young.

Hints on Etiquette

One should always suppress a sneeze or cough when attending a concert or play, if at all possible. A paroxysm of uncontrollable coughing at such time, calls for the exit of the victim, until the spasm is passed.

Today's Horoscope

A birthday today means that you are positive and aggressive. You enjoy having people around you. The men born on this day are fortunate and successful in business. The women are good housekeepers, in so far as the management of the household and family affairs are concerned, but actual housework is distasteful to them. This day is doubtful for romance, social interests and loved ones. Extravagance should be avoided. Your next year calls for extreme caution, patience and forbearance in all things. Refuse all unnecessary risks. Accidents and sudden illness threaten you. The time will, moreover, be most unfavorable for love, domestic and social activities. Born today a child will have many difficulties, struggles and sudden upheavals to contend against and health and fortunes will not be good. Accidents through fire, electricity and firearms are threatened.

Assignment: America . . . by Kenneth L. Dixon

WASHINGTON, March 28 —

Every newspaperman of any experience occasionally is approached by some journalistically-inclined youngster seeking the magic formula which will open the gates to the so-called fourth estate.

I've long since developed practically a pat answer to all such queries. It goes like this: "First you must develop your instinct for news—if you have that instinct, at all. You must learn to spot newsworthy people and events. You must learn to be a judge of latent ability and character in all individuals you meet—to learn whether they are likely to be successes or failures."

"You must learn to gauge the unknowns, and decide whether they are potentially important and newsworthy people — because proper contacts made while they are still unknown will stand you in good stead when they become major news sources."

Now, I firmly believe that to be good advice. But when such youngsters inevitably ask for a few examples from my own experience, I suddenly remember an engagement elsewhere. My record remains perfect when it comes to judging the potentialities of public figures, but modesty forbids my mentioning it.

THERE was that time, many years ago in Canton, Illinois, when I covered the campaign speech of a curly-haired young lawyer who was running for state office. He was defeated, which made me feel pretty wise because previously I had told other reporters that he not only would lose, but also never would amount to anything in politics.

"He'd better go back to practicing law," I quoth sagely. "He just doesn't have the flair for political campaigning."

Sometimes nowadays, when I meet Sen. C. Wayland (Curly) Brooks in the capitol halls, I marvel at how far he's come without a flair for politics.

Then there was the New Mexico character who was running the Coronado Cuarto centennial several years ago. He used to come down to Carlsbad where I was editor of the paper, sit on my desk and try to feed me publicity for his big celebration.

MOSTLY I wasn't buying any part of that business, and sometimes I was pretty brusque with him, telling him flatly his project was doomed to failure. To others on the staff, I was more specific.

"It's a shame," I said, "to see a big pleasant guy like that always failing — never quite making the grade. But he's just the type of guy who will never get anywhere."

Now, that's instinct. The Cuarto centennial was only a partial success, and Clinton

Anderson is only secretary of agriculture today—just a little old job on the President's cabinet.

The necessity for such judgment isn't confined to politics. One night a friend invited me to a party he was giving for some theater people. It was a nice party, except that all the people kept crowding around one sad and sleepy-looking citizen who spent the evening propped up on one elbow on a couch in the corner.

Admittedly, I was somewhat irked at his getting all the attention, but still I spoke from sincere instinct when my host asked me in front of everybody what I thought of his honor guest, the sleepy citizen. Jerking my thumb at the skinny one, who lay there eyeing me sardonically, I snorted: "Him? That undernourished Saroyan? That prone genius? He couldn't generate enough energy to succeed at anything!"

Fortunately, it passed as a joke, for what I didn't know was that Elia Kazan already was recognized as perhaps the greatest living director of the American theater. Even so, I tend to resent his showing off his excess energy nowadays by running out to Hollywood to direct successful movies in between successful Broadway plays.

THAT SORT of instinct was invaluable (?) overseas. When a young fellow quit the office of war information to become a war correspondent in Italy, I led the razzing, thusly:

"You propaganda punks have forgotten how to write a real story. Most of you can't even write your name now, etc., etc., etc. and etc."

They tell me Pat Frank's recent book "Mr. Adam" now has sold around 100,000 copies. But the most perfect example of my unerring instinct came during my early days in Washington. A few reporters and some elected characters from capitol hill were playing a friendly little game of poker. The bespectacled citizen on my right kept catching the cards I wanted, right ahead of me, which, as any stud player will testify, is a distasteful experience.

Still, I controlled myself — until we both lost a hand, after his failure to drop out had kept me from making three of a kind, which would have beat the winning two pair across the table. Then, in stern dignity, I turned to him and said as follows:

"I do not wish to discourage you, but no man who plays poker like you do will ever be a really successful politician!"

Nowadays, I do not attend White House news conferences, unless it's absolutely necessary. Instinct—and like I say, you gotta have it in this game—tells me that Harry Truman remembers that remark.

GEORGE AND JOE

THERE'S NO getting around it, those Russians have odd ideas of hospitality. Odd, that is, judged by American standards. Here we send our No. Two American, Secretary of State, George Marshall, to Moscow, and the head Russian, Mr. Stalin, makes no move to see him, much less to welcome him officially, or unofficially. When the situation was reversed, and Russia sent its No. Two man, Mr. Molotov, over here, our Mr. Truman didn't keep himself in hiding from him. Pictures appeared in all the newspapers of the two of them visiting together, of Mr. Molotov received at the White House, being accorded what seemed to Americans the courtesies expected to be shown visiting dignitaries of a foreign power.

It's possible that Mr. Stalin may not be feeling well. He is said not to be in top physical form lately, requiring frequent rests. In any case, our George is doing all right there in Moscow. He doesn't really need to see Joe, but one would think Mr. Stalin would want to see Mr. Marshall. Doubtless Stalin will get around to it—may even now have done so. It's one of the differences in procedure which make the Russians hard for Americans to understand.

FIVE CENTURIES LATE

AT LAST humanity has visible proof that the globe whereon it lives is actually a globe. Scientists tied a camera in the tail of a V-2 robot rocket, sent it whizzing 100 miles up. The picture that came back was developed and showed 200,000 square miles of south-western United States — and the curvature of the earth. There it is, plain as anything, a round earth. The Man-in-the-Moon has known it looked like that all the time. But no Man-on-the-Earth had seen anything like it before, for it was the greatest height which a camera ever had achieved.

Think what such a picture would have meant to those explorer fellows, old Amerigo Vespucci, our friend Christopher Columbus and Magellan. It would have been a great relief, also, to the poor creatures accompanying them who felt that every day the ships pushed west brought them that much nearer the edge of the world and the falling off place.

With prices of everything so high, don't look for the usual crop of new hats on Easter. But last year's hats, with this year's trimmings from the cheaper counters, will bloom as the flowers of the field.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 28—The avoided and practically unmentioned background of the Greek-Turk aid measures is simply this:

A Russo-Bulgar-Yugoslav plan is supposed to start now to sever Macedonia from Greece, and create there a separate new Balkan state under Communist control. A Spring merger of offensives to this end is supposed, common report among underground agencies including the British) to have been planned at a meeting of Zhukov, Tolbukin and Tito last September. Simultaneously a revolt within Turkey, sponsored by Kurds encouraged by Moscow, is expected to get underway through guerilla activities of small bands.

The Turkish part of the plan is not well organized. The Turks spend 60 percent of their budget for arms, are convinced the revolt will lead to World War III and are willing to fight.

The Greek guerilla forces, however, are supposed to number about 5,000 infantry, mostly Communist, supposed to enjoy excellent connivance from Bulgaria, Albania and Yugoslavia. The Albanians, for instance, have two divisions on the Greek border. The anti-government movement within Greece as a whole is regarded as being supported by perhaps 15 per cent of the population. To thwart the guerilla effort before it gets under way, the Greek army is now moving northward, and attacking the known guerilla areas, although they are hampered by bad communications, including destroyed railroad stock and damaged roadbeds.

The average world diplomat sees more world war possibilities than exist in these potentialities, because Russia is everywhere a hidden partner, unwilling to accept open responsibility. Military men think the Communist withdrawal in North China may have been recently undertaken to clear the way for the Spring Balkan campaign. At any rate it was this situation from which Britain announced withdrawal of her troops from Greece (March 31) and into which Mr. Truman proposes to move with money for a local defense line.

The money plans have now been concluded. Mr. Truman is to give $400 million in nearly any way he sees fit (loans, grants, advances) of which $300 million will go to Greece. Of this amount, 150 million will be purely military advances (rations, clothing) and $150 million civilian including $50 million for equipment (railroads and road reconstruction), $20 million for agricultural rehabilitation and $80 million for internal costs including administration. The Turks are to get the other $100 million mostly in military material but including some work on the roads and improvement of railroads.

The human relief advances are to be in addition to this and centered in $50 million for Greece in a general $350 million Balkan food relief bill. In addition, the Greek war relief association in this country is raising $12 million under approval of the President, Herbert Hoover, Gov. Dewey and others to give medical, child and direct relief assistance.

None of these relief ventures, of course, is really new. UNRRA figures show that

Painful Symptoms Which May Follow Gallbladder Operation

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
WHEN a patient has his gallbladder removed because of inflammation or gallstones, he expects to be relieved of the painful symptoms which troubled him before operation. And, in most instances, he is relieved, but unfortunately for such a patient, occasionally he develops symptoms after his operation similar to those the operation was designed to cure.

This is a very puzzling and unsatisfactory situation. The trouble-making gallbladder is gone and yet the trouble continues in the form of pain in the right upper part of the abdomen, indigestion, the formation of large amounts of gas in the stomach and bowel and often nausea.

Secondary Pain
The secondary pain comes on suddenly, sometimes passing into the back and upward into the right shoulder. After it subsides, tenderness of the muscles often persists.

Such attacks may come at varying periods after operation, sometimes making their appearance within a few months, in other instances holding off for as long as ten years.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN
SHERRY LET Lex talk on, not interrupting, hoping it would help. She learned that he had met Kay only a few months before he went into service and that the attraction between them had been strong and swift. Normally, Lex would have gone on working for Kay's father and he and Kay would have got engaged and then married. They would have rented an apartment and, later on, bought a house in a good suburb, not too far out from the city. That was still the pattern Kay wanted their married life to follow.

But Lex had changed, or rather, he had found himself. The war had jolted him out of the rut in which he had been fairly contented so long as he knew no other way of life. During his training, his service in England and France, he had gained a different perspective, one that enabled him to see the narrowness of his former existence. The mere making of money at a job that bored him no longer seemed a sufficient incentive. His sense of values had altered. And, when he came home, he found himself feeling crowded and hemmed in by the city, profoundly disturbed by the throngs of people all about, the rushing, noisy tempo.

Lex told Sherry, "But when I tried to make Kay understand how I felt—she thought I was actually a little off the beam. She wanted me to see a psychiatrist."

"But that's absurd," Sherry said. "Lots of people hate the city. Getting away from it had simply opened your eyes. And why would you want to pick up where you'd left off when you realized how much happier you'd be living on a farm?"

Lex said, "I can't make Kay see it that way. When I took that agricultural course, she thought it was just a crazy whim. Then, when I began working for Steve, she realized I was serious." His blue eyes were troubled, questioning, on Sherry's face. "She says I'm not being fair to her—and maybe she's right. I don't know. And she says she hates the country—but how can you hate a way of life you know nothing about?"

"Maybe," Sherry said, "that's why she hates it—because she doesn't know it. Some city people seem to think all farmers are ignorant and backward, that you're as good as buried in the country. If you could get Kay to come out here sometime and meet Steve and Aunt Pen and their friends, surely she'd see how mistaken she is."

"You think I haven't tried? She won't come. All we do is quarrel—and still I'm crazy about her. She's so beautiful, Sherry. She can be gay and sweet. If I'd give in to her way of thinking, she'd marry me right away. But—I can't!" He put his palms on the table, pushed himself to his feet. "Maybe we can work it out some time—God knows I hope so! At least, we won't be quarreling for a while—I learned that last night."

"What do you mean?"
"Kay's going to Palm Beach for six weeks. I expect she thinks the absent treatment will bring me to what she considers my senses more quickly and effectively than anything else."

Sherry could only say, inadequately, "I'm sorry, Lex."
"Thanks. You were swell to let me get it all off my chest."

He grinned down at her briefly. The friendliness of his glance warmed her. Surely he must like her a little, to take her so fully into his confidence . . .

Life at the farm was a busy routine into which Sherry fitted easily and which she loved. She rose early and retired early, just as the others did. She helped Aunt Pen with the housework, augmenting the willing, but not too skillful help of the young hired girl, Etta. Sherry wasn't very skillful, either, but she was interested and quick to learn. And Aunt Pen took pleasure in teaching her.

Steve and Lex, along with the other hired man, Jed Porter, were endlessly busy out-of-doors and around the big barns, even in this winter season. Sherry spent all the time she could with them, doing any small job they entrusted to her, enjoying to the full every minute of friendly association. She looked like an eager, long-legged child, in her blue jeans and leather jacket, her hair imprisoned under a bright peasant kerchief.

Steve said once, "Well, take a farmer of her yet, won't we, Lex?"
And Lex answered, grinning, "You bet! A darned good farmer."

Sherry felt pride out of all proportion rise within her.

It seemed to her, during that week's stay at Steve's farm, that the richness and satisfaction of country living became more clearly apparent to her than ever before. Spending so much time with Steve and Lex, listening to their talk, asking questions and so learning, Sherry began to understand and share Steve's sound and deeply rooted philosophy of living. Steve was a firm believer in the importance of agriculture to the economy of the nation as a whole. But, more personally, he felt that no other field of endeavor offered such rich rewards, not in money, but in the deeper and more important fundamentals of life. A man could earn, on even a fairly small farm, enough for the comfortable support of himself and his family. And beyond that, he could do work that was never monotonous to the understanding mind. He could drive a tractor, plant and harvest his crops, renew and preserve the productivity of his soil, attend to the needs of his animals. Each day encompassed a countless variety of engrossing tasks that enlivened the spirit and stirred the imagination and wearied the body with healthful outdoor exercise. No farmer need envy a man at an office desk, doing the same job over and over, nor a factory worker, engaged on his monotonous stint in the noisy atmosphere of whirling machinery and crowding fellow humans.

Sherry could see how Lex's mind met Steve's, how similar were their viewpoints, how close their understanding. And she saw how Lex was learning, not only from Steve, but from the work he did each day. And she saw, too, how much he loved that work, how richly content he would have been, were it not for the nagging, tormenting thought of Kay . . .

The enchanted days sped past. Sherry helped exercise the horses, she skated with Lex and Steve on the frozen pond. A party of neighboring young people invited her and Lex to go on a moonlight toboggan party. Racing down the snowy hillside, the chill fresh wind whipping the breath back into your throat, was like flying. And trudging up again afterwards, two by two, laughing and singing and pulling the big sled, was fun, too. Sherry wished time could stop for a while.

But Leda would be home Sunday evening, she would expect Sherry to be there to welcome her. Also there were engagements awaiting Sherry for the week ahead, luncheons, a theater party, a charity ball which she had promised to attend with Joel Pemberton. The crowded, familiar routine of her life waited ahead to absorb her once more in hectic busyness, boring and unimportant. In it there was none of the reality, the fundamental meaning, she found in her days at the farm. It was like an endless ride on a gaily painted carousel, all movement and color, but getting nowhere. Now, after a brief respite, it was almost time for the music to start up again.

On Saturday Aunt Pen suggested, "There's a square dance in town tonight. Why don't you two go?"
"Sounds like fun," Lex glanced inquiringly at Sherry. "How about it?"

"Well," Sherry said, a little embarrassed, "if you're sure you want to. But don't let this domineering woman put you in a spot."

"Nonsense!" Aunt Pen beamed. "I'll do you both good."

"I've never been to a square dance," Sherry confessed.

"Nor I," Lex said. "We'll lend each other moral support."

Death is the crown of life; were it denied, to live would not be life, and even fools would wish to die. Death wounds to cure; we fall to rise and reign; spring from our fetters; fasten in the skies. — Young.

Hints on Etiquette
One should always suppress a sneeze or cough when attending a concert or play, if at all possible. A paroxysm of uncontrollable coughing at such time, calls for the exit of the victim, until the spasm is passed.

Today's Horoscope
A birthday today means that you are positive and aggressive. You enjoy having people around you. The men born on this day are fortunate and successful in business. The women are good housekeepers, in so far as the management of the household and family affairs are concerned, but actual housework is distasteful to them. This day is doubtful for romance, social interests and loved ones. Extravagance should be avoided. Your next year calls for extreme caution, patience, and forbearance in all things. Refuse all unnecessary risks. Accidents and sudden illness threaten you. The time will, moreover, be most unfavorable for love, domestic and social activities. Born today a child will have many difficulties, struggles and sudden upheavals to contend against and health and fortunes will not be good. Accidents through fire, electricity and firearms are threatened.

Tuberculosis Association Annual Meeting Is Held

Officers Re-elected At Annual Dinner And Meeting

Members of Pickaway county Tuberculosis and Health association and board of directors, gathered in the Pickaway Arms Thursday evening for a dinner and business meeting. Each township in Pickaway County was represented by their seal sale chairman, and a few additional guests. Group was seated at one long table in the dining room for the dinner.

George D. McDowell, president, presided during the business session. He introduced Mrs. Harry E. Graef, city seal sale chairman, George P. Foresman, treasurer, and Mrs. Paul W. Counts, new chairman of Wayne township. Mrs. Harriet Henness, secretary, read the minutes of previous meeting. Miss Clara P. Southward, chairman of budget committee, submitted final yearly report. Mrs. C. E. Webb, executive secretary, presented the financial report. "Appropriation of funds for 1947 include, $1,100 for tuberculosis, $300, city health and nutrition work, $300 for county health and nutrition work, $1,000 certificate of deposit and balance of money to remain in the general fund account." Mrs. Mae M. Groome, city nurse, spoke of her contacts with Circleville patients in regard to tuberculosis. Mrs. Robert Pickens, county nurse, told of 22 persons on her list that are checked regularly to avoid any recurrences of tuberculosis.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway county health commissioner, gave a short history of local tuberculosis organization. He then said, "tuberculosis is one of the least of our worries in Pickaway county", and sighted a specific case, that was showing great improvement. "When a positive case is found, special attention and care is given to check further developments." "A few families have moved in the county from West Virginia and Kentucky, that need attention, but as a whole Pickaway county is a good locality for health." "There are very few physical hazards, as most of the population is made up of farm workers and those that live a great portion of their lives out of doors." Dr. Blackburn continued, "There is no reason to get tuberculosis in Pickaway county — as conditions point favorably to good health." "All doctors are constantly on the alert for new cases. Special care must be taken of the post-sanatorium patient. In arrested cases medical science has developed many new methods to assist in regaining good health."

Group discussed tuberculosis control program, now known as bill no. 113 and 114, before the Ohio general assembly for the needed legislation in combating tuberculosis.

Slate of officers to serve for a term of one year was submitted by Mrs. Ralph Head, member of nominating committee. Mr. McDowell was unanimously re-elected to serve as president of the tuberculosis association. Corps of re-elected officers include, Mrs. Melvin Yates, first-vice-president, Miss Southward, second-vice-president, Mrs. Henness, secretary, Mr. Foresman, treasurer, Carl D. Bennett, district representative, Tom A. Renick, legislative chairman, and Mrs. Graef, city chairman. Mrs. George Messick, Ashville, and Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, were re-nominated to serve a three-year term on the executive committee.

Following the meeting the group adjourned to the parlors of the New American hotel, where silent moving pictures were shown. First was "Lease on Life", portraying the story of an average American family and how they planned to act to avoid unnecessary illness. Forces of prevention were shown in action — the conflict between superstition and fact and the combination of skilled hands and minds in disciplined medical teamwork. Characters were drawn with clarity, humor and charm, beginning with "the good old days" when nobody consulted a doctor "til they were really sick", to an acceptance of these health facts needed and remembered of today.

"This is TB" second picture shown, told the story of tuberculosis, outlining the causes, spread, cure and prevention. "This is TB" portrayed the problems that remain to be combated in eradicating the disease. Medical men, tuberculosis workers, and educators all contributed their knowledge in the authentic portrayal. X-ray service and sanatorium care were vividly brought to the attention of the audience — to provide and promote better health. "TB comes from TB. To drive tuberculosis from every community, every case must be found. Chest x-ray and the tuberculin test are the weapons for hidden tuberculosis. Tuberculosis can be controlled and cured, was emphasized. "At the conclusion was this valuable health reminder, "Have you had a chest x-ray this year?"

Tuberculosis Association Annual Meeting Is Held

Officers Re-elected At Annual Dinner And Meeting

Members of Pickaway county Tuberculosis and Health association and board of directors, gathered in the Pickaway Arms Thursday evening for a dinner and business meeting. Each township in Pickaway County was represented by their seal sale chairman, and a few additional guests. Group was seated at one long table in the dining room for the dinner.

George D. McDowell, president, presided during the business session. He introduced Mrs. Harry E. Graef, city seal sale chairman, George P. Foresman, treasurer, and Mrs. Paul W. Counts, new chairman of Wayne township. Mrs. Harriet Henness, secretary, read the minutes of previous meeting. Miss Clara P. Southward, chairman of budget committee, submitted final yearly report. Mrs. C. E. Webb, executive secretary, presented the financial report. "Appropriation of funds for 1947 include, $1,100 for tuberculosis, $300, city health and nutrition work, $300 for county health and nutrition work, $1,000 certificate of deposit and balance of money to remain in the general fund account." Mrs. Mae M. Groome, city nurse, spoke of her contacts with Circleville patients in regard to tuberculosis. Mrs. Robert Pickens, county nurse, told of 22 persons on her list that are checked regularly to avoid any recurrences of tuberculosis.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway county health commissioner, gave a short history of local tuberculosis organization. He then said, "tuberculosis is one of the least of our worries in Pickaway county", and sighted a specific case, that was showing great improvement. "When a positive case is found, special attention and care is given to check further developments." "A few families have moved in the county from West Virginia and Kentucky, that need attention, but as a whole Pickaway county is a good locality for health."

"There are very few physical hazards, as most of the population is made up of farm workers and those that live a great portion of their lives out of doors." Dr. Blackburn continued, "There is no reason to get tuberculosis in Pickaway county — as conditions point favorably to good health." "All doctors are constantly on the alert for new cases. Special care must be taken of the post-sanatorium patient. In arrested cases medical science has developed many new methods to assist in regaining good health."

Group discussed tuberculosis control program, now known as bill no. 113 and 114, before the Ohio general assembly for the needed legislation in combating tuberculosis.

Slate of officers to serve for a term of one year was submitted by Mrs. Ralph Head, member of nominating committee. Mr. McDowell was unanimously re-elected to serve as president of the tuberculosis association. Corps of re-elected officers include, Mrs. Melvin Yates, first-vice-president, Miss Southward, second-vice-president, Mrs. Henness, secretary, Mr. Foresman, treasurer, Carl D. Bennett, district representative, Tom A. Renick, legislative chairman, and Mrs. Graef, city chairman. Mrs. George Messick, Ashville, and Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, were re-nominated to serve a three-year term on the executive committee.

Following the meeting the group adjourned to the parlors of the New American hotel, where silent moving pictures were shown. First was "Lease on Life", portraying the story of an average American family and how they planned to act to avoid unnecessary illness. Forces of prevention were shown in action — the conflict between superstition and fact and the combination of skilled hands and minds in disciplined medical teamwork. Characters were drawn with clarity, humor and charm, beginning with "the good old days" when nobody consulted a doctor "til they were really sick", to an acceptance of these health facts needed and remembered of to-day.

"This is TB" second picture shown, told the story of tuberculosis, outlining the causes, spread, cure and prevention. "This is TB" portrayed the problems that remain to be combated in eradicating the disease. Medical men, tuberculosis workers, and educators all contributed their knowledge in the authentic portrayal. X-ray service and sanatorium care were vividly brought to the attention of the audience — to provide and promote better health. "TB comes from TB. To drive tuberculosis from every community, every case must be found. Chest x-ray and the tuberculin test are the weapons for hidden tuberculosis. Tuberculosis can be controlled and cured, was emphasized. "At the conclusion was this valuable health reminder, "Have you had a chest x-ray this year?"

up to last Jan. 1 we gave Greece $164 million in food, $35 million clothing, textiles and footwear $10 million medical; $50 million agriculture; $41 million for industry, and some miscellaneous for a grand total of $358 million.

Thus Greece is to cost $362 million more atop the $358 million already given (largely by the United States) for a visible total of $720 million so far. The need is great, but this is not bad for a nation with an estimated 1939 population of 7 million. It represents over $100 per man, woman and child so far (probably more because the population is probably not today as large as 1939.)

The very nature of these steps shows them unlikely to involve us in war. As the Russian participation is secret the odds are hardly likely to come out of their explosive shells. Indeed they can hardly openly oppose our efforts to sustain governments against guerrilla warfare no matter what they may do in secret. Furthermore, if Greece and Turkey really succeed in thwarting Spring guerrilla operations they will have made war just that much more unlikely for this year.

The graver possibilities lie in our assumption of world leadership at this point, to continue presumably from now on. Britain is gone from the scene of major world influence. She is giving away half her empire, intending to keep presumably only Canada, Australia and South Africa. Having lost her help, presumably we are embarked on a policy of furnishing materials to protect governments outside the Soviet orbit. She protects hers directly by installing sympathetic governments and trying to get the defense cabinet posts (even France.) We move indirectly by furnishing our substance.

The British empire is disintegrating fast. The Russian empire has arisen, expanding and aggressive. We shy away from an empire of our own, which might sustain itself in resistance to communism, but give our money to meet what we pretend to be a temporary situation. In these larger diplomatic considerations lies the danger.

NEW YORK, March 28 — Whatever did our forefathers do before radio was invented? Over in New Jersey recently, a new gadget was demonstrated for the housewife who gets involved in a mah jong game and forgets about the old man's dinner. Driving through the Newark business district, a woman leaned over and flicked a switch on her dashboard. Miles away, when she arrived at her destination (when put into practical use, this should coincide with hubby's arrival) she whipped off her coat and ladled out the dinner.

long distance various electrical equipment tuned to the proper frequency. Available "in the near future."

If the clangs don't drown out the pangs of suffering on soap serials, streetcar riders in the twin cities will be entertained by radio during their travels. An FM station operated by WTCN in Minneapolis intends to install receiving sets, providing the radio can be heard over the rumbling of the streetcars.

Team of Frank and Anne Hummert, writers of several popular soap serials, have authored a new one "Katie's Daughter," to start Monday. Chicago station WJJD will air a new daytime serial called "Here Comes Tomorrow," radio's first all-Negro soap opera. Radio's newest offering to the kids is a series of musical Mother Goose jingles on safety. "For Fathers Only" travels the airlines soon. The audience participation show puts papas-to-be who are sweating out the blessed event before the mike. If baby is born during the show, Pbp gets a bigger and better prize.

Incidentally, the federal revenue men are some of the most avid fans of the giveaway shows. The stuff you win, you know, is taxable, even the merchandise which is evaluated at market prices not what the emcee says it's worth. There is no charge for winning goods or money when you don't have to contest for it.

MBS held a "sneak preview" of its new hour-long "Major Bowes Original Amateur Hour" at the Guild Theater, Friday night, March 21, following the broadcast of "Leave It to the Girls." The program is owned by the stockholders (seven of them) of the original Chrysler program, and one of these owners, Warren Sweeney, has been selected as the emcee. Arrangements have already been made with various theaters throughout the country to book travelling "Amateur Troupes No. 1, No. 2," etc., as was done with the original series. This hasn't been announced to the trades at this writing; plans are to start it on

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

ENTRY MORE VALUABLE
GETTING A discard from a really long suit is seldom of value to a suit declarer. Usually there will be enough rounds of that suit so that its lowest cards eventually are winners. But preventing the unnecessary loss of top-card tricks in it can be quite vital. Managing to lead toward them enough times is generally essential to realizing the full trick-taking powers of whatever high cards are in it. Consequently development of an extra entry to dummy for this purpose may be the key to success.

(Dealer: South North-South vulnerable.)

South West North East
Pass Pass Pass 1♥
2♣ Pass 2♠ Pass
3♦ Pass 4♠

Funny thing about this deal, in a duplicate. Where South bid more conservatively calling his diamonds first and the clubs later, he economized a level of bidding and ended in only 3-Clubs. Then he proceeded to make exactly that contract, whereas the pair that bid as shown made the higher contract of 4-Clubs, so won the deal.

First let's see what mistake the 3-Clubber made. West led the heart J to the A. South now unblocked the spade A for a discard by scoring his singleton K—the play that beat him. He sent the club Q through to the K, ruffed the heart return, scored the club J and led to the club A. The spade A gave him a diamond discard, which was of no value, and then he led the diamond 9 to the J and K. The heart return was ruffed, and he was in his own hand. He had to lead diamonds away from it, so that both the A and 10 won tricks holding him to exactly three-odd.

The 4-Clubs declarer won the heart lead, sent the club Q to the K, ruffed the heart return, scored the club J and A, led once toward the diamonds, playing the J to force the K, and ruffed the heart return. Then he overtook the spade K with dummy's A for a second diamond lead. What East did made no difference. He came in with the A and led another heart for South to trump. Now the diamond Q dropped the 10 and the rest of the suit was good. Overtaking the spade K for a dummy entry was more valuable to him than a discard.

Pickaway County Exceeds Goal In Annual Campaign For Funds

$10,160.65 IS COLLECTED HERE FOR RED CROSS

Circleville, Most Townships Over Quotas, Final Report Reveals

Red Cross fund drive for 1947 in Pickaway county was well "over the top" Friday.

Final report, submitted by Roscoe Warren, general chairman of the drive, shows that contributions total $10,160.65 to date — more than $1000 over the $8,500 quota set for the county.

City of Circleville and most of the township divisions exceeded their goals in the drive, Mr. Warren's report shows.

Reports by divisions:
City of Circleville, $2,663.06; Industries, $923; fraternal and service clubs, $290.50; Circleville schools, $481.11.

ASHVILLE village, $554.25; Circleville township, $179.75; Darby township, $108; Williamsport and Deer Creek township, $491.05; Harrison, $353.25; Jackson, $278; Madison, $392.50; Monroe, $341.45; Muhlenberg, $182.25; New Holland and Perry township, $703.70; Pickaway, $502.75; Salt Creek, $383.75; Scioto, $507.35; Walnut, $400.59; Washington, $320.84; Wayne, $123.50.

Mr. Warren voiced his appreciation to all who helped to make the campaign such an outstanding success.

Special thanks were given members of the planning committee, W. L. Sprouse, A. W. Bosworth, D. D. Dowden, William D. Radcliff, William Defenbaugh, Homer Reber, Forrest Short, William Weldon, vice chairman; William Crist, publicity chairman; Mrs. George Fishpaw, fund campaign secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Beulah Madison, executive secretary of the Pickaway chapter and also various chairman of townships and divisions and their solicitors

$1500 DAMAGE CAUSED BY FIRE IN SOUTH END

Fire badly damaged the garage and repair shop of John Hunt at South Pickaway and Logan streets, Thursday night, and Fire Chief Talmer Wise estimated the loss at $1,500 to building and contents. He said the loss was partially covered by insurance.

Firemen were summoned at 7:55 p. m., battled the blaze for 80 minutes, and Chief Wise said the origin of the blaze was undetermined. One automobile which was in the one-and-half-story frame structure was damaged. It was removed by firemen. Hunt suffered considerable loss in tools, repair parts, and equipment.

Youthful Trio Who Tried To Hold Up Bank Awaiting Trial In Columbus

Three Springfield youths, captured by London police 40 minutes after they allegedly staged an unsuccessful holdup of the First National Bank at New Holland on March 21, were in jail at Columbus, Friday, in default of $25,000 bond each, awaiting arraignment before Federal Judge Mel G. Underwood in the U. S. District court there.

The bond was originally set March 24 when the trio was given preliminary arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Robert W. Newlon. Judge Underwood postponed, Thursday, the arraignment of the three youths, ordered the $25,000 bond continued, and remanded them to the custody of the U. S. marshal. Judge Underwood also directed the U. S. District attorney's office to inquire into the status of Donald A. Neff, 17, one of the trio. The others are Charles R.

Maley, 23, and Carson L. Rice, 18. Driving to New Holland in a automobile rented in Springfield, according to Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff, Maley and Neff entered the bank. The holdup developed into a sort of joke when the youths aimed revolvers and demanded the money, but the cylinder of the gun held by one of them clattered to a counter. When a rear door slammed both fled to the waiting car.

Following a conference March 22 with County Prosecutor Kenneth Robbins and Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff, Sheriff Radcliff announced he would turn the youths over to the federal government for prosecution. The prisoners were removed March 24 from the Circleville jail to Columbus.

SENATE PASSES BILLS

COLUMBUS, O., March 28—The senate Thursday passed unanimously a bill which would subject the governor's appointments to the state racing commission to senate confirmation. By a similar 30 to 0 vote, the senate also passed bills to permit corporations to pay more than eight per cent interest on short term loans and to exempt from the sales tax, meals furnished by employers to their workers.
